PERIODIC CONTROLS

Uncontrolled equipment are risky!

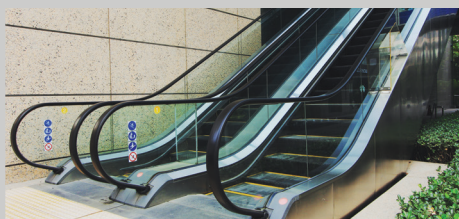

Work equipment used in your work sites have a major role in your operations. Any disorder in the functioning of these equipment would have a negative effect in your production or service processes.

The Ministry of Labor and Social Security issued the Directive on Health and Safety Requirements for the Use of Work Equipment on April 25, 2013. This Directive lays down the minimum health and safety requirements for the use of work equipment by workers. According to the provisions of the Directive, the periodic controls of work equipment must be performed according to the criteria and intervals specified in national and international standards, data provided by producers and the scientific and technical requirements.
